ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I have a few people that I would like to thank for their help. Firstly my loving husband Jeff, who supports me 100% in everything that I do, even if he doesn't understand it, he is my strength and my rock. My daughter Nicole for her love, support and ever-practical suggestions and bringing me down to earth once in a while. Greg my son, who again supports me even though he is not 100% sure if things work or not, and for all the crystals that he has come home with over the years. Libby who is just new to our family and has a great interest in crystals and their healing qualities, and for her support also. Scott who is the newest member of our clan. His help with the computer side of making this book and the website a reality has been invaluable. I would like to thank my dear friends Gloria and Bill Murphy who have looked in second- hand bookshops all over the place for me and also for their support and love. It's not easy being supportive of something that you do not fully understand. I would also like to give a vote of thanks to my friends Megan Huntly for her support and suggestions and use of her extensive information system, Wendy Spicer and Karen Bridle for their unqualified encouragement and honesty, Linda Blake for her valuable assistance with the medical terms and also her encouragement.

Thanks and I love all you guys heaps.

Thanks to Frances Wade for her editing of this book, also for her suggestions and advice.

My thanks also to Sara Hollis-Watts of Southwood Press for her understanding, assistance and also guiding this first timer through the process of getting this book into print. Saras' help has been invaluable.

A very special thanks goes to Ross Kitzelmann, who not only let me photograph some of his wonderful collection of crystals, but who has freely shared the benefit of his knowledge of crystals gained over 34 years. I have added to my own collection and knowledge considerably since meeting Ross. I know you will enjoy Ross's photos. Love and Light

FOREWORD

I have had a love affair with crystals all my life. Even as a small child I would collect stones which were different and appealed to me. I always seemed to find stones that were out of the ordinary. I often found myself giving them away to people as presents.

It was not until later that I discovered that the stones were crystals and that they had an effect on people. I decided to find out more about the crystals and their effects. At first it was not easy gathering this information; it became much easier later in life. I used my intuition at first, and found that I attracted people to me who used crystals in healing, both physical and metaphysical. These people shared their knowledge with me, and I shared what I had learnt with them.

I devoured anything I could get my hands on regarding crystals and their healing powers. I would haunt the bookshops in any town that I visited. I have fond memories of hours spent in dusty second-hand book shops just browsing, looking for treasures.

When someone in the family, or a friend, became ill, I would look for a crystal that could assist them in their healing. Even if I could not find the crystal or the crystal was not accepted by the person concerned, I would make a note of it either mentally or on paper. After a while I noticed that when I needed those little pieces of paper, I could not put my hands on them straight away or remember the particular crystal that was needed for the particular problem.

And being the owner of a memory that needed jogging at times, it was not a very efficient way to keep records. It would then be back to the old crystal books looking up individual crystals.

Realising that I needed a reference guide, I began searching high and low for a book that had an extensive list of ailments and their related crystal, but they all seemed to have the crystal first and mention the ailment somewhere else in the text. It is very time consuming, not to mention frustrating, going through every crystal to find the one related to the ailment that you wish to treat. I decided to catalogue the information that I had. It started out very modestly, but grew into a monster (but a lovable one). Other crystal healers I talked to had encountered the same problems as myself in this area, and were just as frustrated. So the monster grew, and the catalogue blossomed into this book. If something is worth doing it is worth doing well, as the saying goes. I hope this book will be of benefit to all who use crystals for healing, not only the professionals but the occasional crystal healers as well.

May your journey be full of love and happiness. Colleen

INTRODUCTION

This is a reference guide only, not the Holy Grail or the Bible.

The information in this book is to assist you in obtaining the appropriate crystal for the appropriate ailment. The information was gained over many years through intuition, the continued use of crystals, talking to other crystal healers, experimenting, research and reading, reading all I could about crystals and their properties.

This is by no means a complete or definitive list, but a guide only. What works for one may not work for another. It is not meant to replace any medical treatment or medication that the person may be taking. Use the crystals to complement traditional medicine, not replace it. It is also not advisable to try to diagnose someone's medical condition unless you are a qualified medical practitioner.

Crystals have been used for hundreds of years for healing, and are once again coming into their own in this area. Even some traditional medical doctors are suggesting that their patients try alternatives in conjunction with their treatment. It is amazing what results can be achieved with the use of crystals.

The best way to use this book is to look up the ailment and find the crystals that are listed under it. Then you can look up the crystal properties and decide which one suits the situation or use your intuition to determine which one is the correct crystal for the ailment. Either method will work just as well. Trust your intuition, but if you are unsure then check with a crystal book to help you make your decision.

Crystals can be applied to ailments in a number of ways. You can carry them on you, you can lay them on the affected area, rub them over the area to be treated or make an elixir with them.

If you are going to make a gem elixir ALWAYS read about the crystal first to see if there are any contraindications. Some like Lead Crystals should not be prepared in the normal method, due to their toxicity and others should not be placed in water as they are soft and will dissolve.

IF IN DOUBT, DON'T.

You will find a crystal called Magnetic Hematite in this book. There are a couple of cautions to observe when using this crystal. Because of its strong magnetic qualities, you should not use it on someone with a pacemaker. It should also be kept away from all cards with magnetic strips as it will remove the information stored there, and it is advisable to remove watches when using it.

Do not be afraid to experiment with the crystals and their uses. This is exactly how all the knowledge that we have today was gained. If used wisely, and if the necessary cautions are all observed, then crystals will not harm but help.

CRYSTAL USAGE

There are a number of ways in which the crystals can be applied to an ailment.

You can wear them as jewellery, such as rings, bracelets, necklaces and pendants.

They can be carried on your person, in a pocket or purse

You can hold them over the effected area, rub them gently over the area to be treated or just let them rest on the area.

You can place them beside your bed, under the bed or under the pillow.

They can be placed in the car, it is advisable to make sure that they are in a secure place, e.g. glovebox, to prevent them from causing injury to anyone.

You can use the crystals in a layout. There are a number of them so it would be advisable to look some up to find the one that suits you best.

You can place the crystals around your home anywhere that you feel the need. They make a very attractive ornament.

You can make an elixir with them.

If you are going to make a gem elixir ALWAYS read about the crystal first to see if there are any contraindications. Some crystals e.g. Lead Crystals should not be prepared by the normal method, due to their toxicity, and others should not be placed in water as they are soft and will dissolve.

IF IN DOUBT, DONT.

References

As you would imagine I could not have used all the crystals covered in this book, a lot of my information has come from talking to other crystal healers and their experiences, my own experiences and the rest has come through reading books. I cannot name every book that I have read over the years, as I have forgotten most of them.

But the list below is of current one's that I have read and would recommend them to anyone working with crystals.
