Introduction to Sigil Divination

Sigil divination is an art as old as sigils themselves. Much like tarot cards or rune stones, there are meanings in pictures and symbols. Sigils, being glyphs themselves, are really no different.

We use sigils to identify spirits whether those spirits are planetary, Daemonic, or God-Forms. Each of them, being attached to a spirit, already has its own unique meaning. There is often unique meaning in the seals themselves.

The use of sigils in divination is nothing new. Just look at the Tarot of Ceremonial Magick. A Daemonolater a few years back wrote a book on how to use seals like one might use tarot cards. I've come across people who read them like Rune Stones, and I've even met people who incorporate this type of divination into their daily lives.

Brid Delaney told me several years ago that her mother-in-law and her husband's grandmother used to keep a pot of sigils on the dining room sideboard.

Whenever they were experiencing difficulties or needed guidance, a sigil would be pulled and read. It's actually a very simple process. She now follows this old tradition and keeps a sigil pot in her own dining room and it's used by the entire family whenever wisdom or insight is sought.

In this book, I'm going to discuss the various forms of sigil divination I've run across over the years, discuss the preparations of sigils and sigil pots, and discuss the various methods by which they can be read

I hope by the time you're done with this book, you'll be inspired to bring more sigils into your life.

Choosing the Sigil Set

The one great thing about sigils is that there are so many of them.

The one frustrating thing about sigil divination is there are so many of them.

Choosing a sigil set, for some, will be as simple as looking to the hierarchies of spirits you're working with. Since I'm a Daemonolater and I'm soft-poly, I tend to work across hierarchies, making sigil sets more difficult to choose from. I could go Goetia. I could go Khemetic or Greco-Roman, or I could simply go with the Dukanté hierarchy. I actually use the Dukanté hierarchy for sigil divination because it's not as big as some of the others. Plus I have made complete clay Sigil Rune sets for the Dukante' hierarchy.

This is by no means your only choice. Just know that this book will primarily use the Dukanté hierarchy for the most part, but there is also a section in the back of this book that discusses the Goetia for divination.

For the Dukanté hierarchy I've pulled out the sixteen most commonly worked with Demons. For the Goetia section, all 72 are there. By all means, feel free to use your own hierarchy of choice.

Now let's move on to choosing the "medium" from which to craft your divinatory sigil sets. You have a lot of choices.

Crafting the Sigil Sets

There are many methods by which you can craft your sigil sets. You can make them in the form of tarot decks or rune stone sets.

Cards:

If you are looking for a pre-made card set, for example, your current options amount to The Tarot of Ceremonial Magick and the deck of Fallen Angels. I suggest, for the latter, drawing the seals on the cards with a silver or gold paint marker. There are many more decks in the works as I write this. Sadly none of them are finished yet (you know who you are!). I'm hoping we'll see more Daemonolatry specific sigil tarot decks in the future.

But really, there are ways to do it yourself. They have those “color-your-own-tarot” decks that you can buy and add sigils that way. Alternatively a simple set of 3x5 cards with sigils drawn on them will do just as well. Aesthetics may or may not be an issue for you.

Sigil Rune Stones:

With these, you probably want to stick with a set of about sixteen to twenty stones that cover a wide range of meanings. There are many ways to craft a set like this. You could purchase sixteen, uniform, pre-smoothed stones made from any type of stone you desire. This has the added benefit of attuning your divination stones to any magickal work or to give them magickal properties. Consider one of the many types of quartz because it carves well.

Another option is to use river rock or just uniform rocks you find outside, in nature. Some folks believe stones sets are more powerful if you seek them out and pluck them directly from ‘the wild’ and don’t process them. However, if you have a rock polisher you may choose to polish the rocks yourself.

Once you collect the number of stones you need for your sigil set, you can either use a Dremel device to carve the seals into each stone, or you can paint each stone with the seal on it. Permanent marker also works.

If for any reason you aren’t too keen on the idea of having to find or purchase stones and you want a project for an afternoon, go down to your local hobby store, buy some oven bake clay in a color you like, and create enough little stones or disks to make your sigil set. Then carve the sigil into each one with a dot at the top so you know which way is “up” (especially if you want to use ‘reverse’ meanings). Bake, cool, use! You can choose to glaze them afterward or paint the sigils as well. It’s entirely up to you. There’s a lot of room for your individual creativity here so have fun with it!

Wooden Sigil Sets

In some hobby stores they sell wooden disks. Sigils can be burned into the wooden disks, drawn on them, or carved into them. You may choose to lacquer them when you're done to keep moisture out, and so they'll last longer.

Dedicating & Consecrating Sigil Sets

Like any “magickal” tool, you may want to dedicate and consecrate your sigil set like you would any other divination device. I suggest a simple consecration ritual.

During the ritual use an incense of divination containing broom, cherry, dragon’s blood, fig, goldenrod, ivy, meadowsweet, or orris root. You might also use tinctures of belladonna or mandrake. Run your divination set through the incense smoke, and for stone or clay sets, anoint them with the tinctures. A good oleum of Ashtaroth made by mixing one part dragon’s blood, two parts orris root, a drop of your blood, and one part ivy will also work. If you are dedicating and consecrating cards, you may choose not to anoint them with the oleum. An alternative might be to lightly mist them (using a spray bottle) with an alcohol based divination tincture so that they aren't ruined.

In the consecration you are simply attuning the set to you and dedicating it to the practice of divination.

One note – if you are sharing the divination set with the household, do not add your blood to the oleum or tinctures used to consecrate the set.

If you're doing intensive divination sessions with your sigil sets, anoint your temples and third eye with camphor and drink a divination tea before starting.

A good tea for divination: mix equal parts of hibiscus, orange peel, pomegranate and dandelion in a bowl. Place in cheese cloth (or a coffee filter), and steep in a cup of boiling water. Drink it before working.

Charging Sigil Sets

Sigil sets can be charged during pillar rites like any other magickal or divination device. See The Daemonolater's Guide to Daemonic Magick for more.

Storing your Sigil Set

A lot of people keep their divination sigil rune sets in leather or velvet bags. Card sets are also often stored this way. However, there is the matter of the sigil pot. That is also an option. Sigil pots are clay or earthenware bowls or crocks used to store the sigil set. The idea behind storing your divination devices in darkness seems to stem from a belief that light will draw power out of a divination set. I don't necessarily agree with this. I keep a tarot deck on my side table day in and day out. I use it daily. I have never had the problem of feeling they were drained or powerless. However, I do store my sigil rune sets in velvet or leather bags. Not because I think they will lose power, but rather because they're easier to find, move, and keep together when stored this way. Necessity is the mother of invention, after all.

Along those lines people often say you shouldn't let others touch your divination devices. There is some truth to this. If you consecrated the device using your own blood, it's yours. It likely won't work for anyone else. Like any magickal tool, it's been attuned to you. Of course if you have people coming over and touching your ritual tools or divination devices without your consent you might want to rethink who you're hanging out with. Seers and magicians should be polite and always ask before touching other people's things. Period.

Creating the Sigil Pot

The interesting thing about sigil pots is they go beyond being simple storage containers for your stone or clay sigil sets. I suppose you could even keep your sigil cards in a sigil pot, too. The basic idea of the sigil pot is that the pot is charged always so that the sigils within it are also always charged. It's as if the sigil pot is what we call a constant pillar. This constant pillar is always drawing energy from the divine. In a sense it's like an open portal. I don't recommend the sigil pot for anyone who doesn't do regular "house cleaning" and warding.

To make the pot, choose an earthenware vessel big enough to house your divination set. Next, draw or paint the seal of any divinatory spirit on the outside of it to dedicate it. I always choose Leviathan or Ashtaroth for mine. Water spirits always work well since water is the element of divination, insight, and empathy. Ashtaroth would be a good choice because Astarte/Ashtaroth is a seer's Daemon. The sign of Scorpio would also be relevant here if you wanted to use a more neutral glyph instead.

Once you've done this, consecrate the pot by running it through the smoke of a divination incense. Anoint the pot with a divination oil or tincture. Finally, put the pot through the paces of a pillar ritual. Except once you remove the candles the pillar remains open. Now yes, you may have to re-charge the pot or re-establish the pillar at regular intervals. Keeping the pot active is, in a sense, a lot like feeding servitors. Please keep this in mind.

Maintenance

If you're using a sigil pot, you shouldn't have to charge or clean your stones unless they start feeling blah. If you aren't using a sigil pot you should clean/clear, re-consecrate, and re-charge your sigil sets at regular intervals. This can be as simple as holding them, clearing them (usually with a visualization), and then running them through incense smoke, re-anointing, and re-charging via a pillar. There is no set time frame that you should do this. For people who use their divination devices often, you may want to do it more frequently like once every three to six months. For those of you who don't use your divination sets often, you might only perform this operation every 1-2 years. Everyone's needs are different.

Divination Methods

There are several methods you can use to employ sigil sets for divination. First, you can read them much like one reads tarot cards via set “spreads”. The second way is to read them in rune spreads. You can pull one at a time and read it as a stand-alone. You can also read them reversed. This means that generally, if you pull the sigil and it's upside down, you're looking at hidden aspects or opposite attributes. It's a common misconception by people who don't really know how to read cards, runes, etc... that an upside down rune or card is automatically negative. This is not true. It generally means the meaning is either opposite or the influence isn't as strong. Much like with anything, you have to read sigils in context with any sigils around them.

Also, I propose that, much like runes, each sigil can be read four different ways depending how it lands. Now that my friends, is a task indeed. We can discuss this as we go. In the meantime, let's talk about the different types of spreads and then we can move on to the two sigil sets of this book and discuss Attributes.

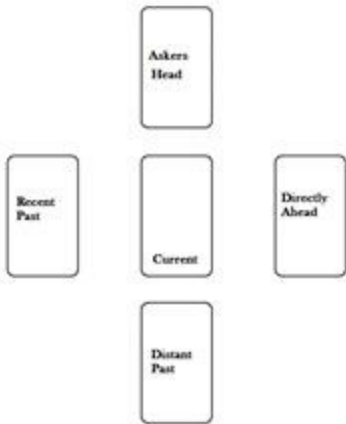

SPREAD TYPES

We're going to discuss several spread types. It's important to know there are as many types of spreads as there are tarot decks out there and all of them can be used in both sigil and rune reading. I'm going to quickly outline a few of them

- One Sigil – This is pretty straight forward. You think about your situation, pull a single sigil, and read it as wisdom and insight into your situation.
- Three Sigil – This is another simple and straightforward spread. You simply pull one sigil for the past, one for the present, and one for the future. This spread is also used for Yes/No answers by some people. Inverted sigils are considered NO whereas right side up sigils are considered YES answers. If you have all three seals right side up, your answer is yes, if they're all inverted, the answer is no. If you have two no's and one yes the answer is likely no, and if you have two yes's and one no the answer is a likely yes.

- Five Sigil – This is the short version of a Celtic spread. You situate four cards around a center card. The center card is the present. The card above that is what's in the person's (the person you're reading for) head, the card to the right is what is directly ahead, the one below is distant past, and the one to the left is recent past.

- Celtic Spread- This is the same as the five sigil, but includes four sigils to the right that show the path to the final outcome. They're read from bottom to top, the top sigil being the absolute final outcome. (Yes, I'm using tarot diagrams.

- Four Sigil Readings – The first sigil represents the mental aspect, the second, the physical aspect; the third, the spiritual aspect; the fourth, the path to tread.

- Six Sigil Readings – This is a variant on the three sigil reading. Instead of one sigil for past, one for present, and one for future, you pull two. Both of them, side by side, give you a clearer picture of the situation. The first two sigils represent the past; the second two sigils represent the present; the last two sigils represent the future.

Six Sigil Reading Diagram

Past

Present

Future

- Wheel of the Year- I really like this spread for runes and sigils. Basically you pull one sigil for each month/sun sign. This works better with larger sigil sets and it works best if you read each seal in the direction it falls. More about that when we discuss actually doing the reading. This is kind of like the astrological spread

- The Astrological Reading – This one is more complicated. Astrologers will love it. You read the sigils, in this case, like you would a natal chart. Each card symbolic of the house it's in.

1. The first house is the house of first impressions and the physical appearance.
2. The second house covers money, values, and possessions.
3. The third house is the house of communication, community, and siblings.
4. The fourth house is family and home.

It is maternal. This is the occult house that covers the foundation of the magician.

5. The fifth house covers creativity and recreation as well as the paternal.
6. The sixth house is work ethic, responsibility, and service (to others).
7. The seventh house covers marriages, friendships and intimate partnerships.
8. The eighth house covers sex, death, and other folks' money. This is also the occult house and governs the magician's ability and interest in the occult.
9. The ninth house is the house of travel, education, and philosophy. It also covers religion.

10. The tenth house deals with ambition, status, career, and public image.
11. The eleventh house governs social groups, causes one works toward, and long-term goals.
12. Finally, the twelfth house is psychic ability, hidden talents and is the final occult house that reveals the hidden side (talents) of a magician.

- The Diamond Reading – This is a good spread if you are seeking insight in difficult situations. You set the sigils in the shape of a diamond. The bottom sigil represents the foundation. This forms the basis of the issue; the left sigil represents one of the forces acting on the issue; the right sigil represents another of the forces acting on the issue; the top sigil represents the conclusion to which your current path is leading you.

Performing the Divination

Now that we've discussed the actual spreads we can use and how they're formulated, let's discuss how to read the spreads. A lot of people erroneously think that readings are simply a matter of memorize, regurgitate, repeat.

I contend that anyone who reads like this has not yet developed his/her psychic skills. The fact of the matter is that eventually you have to realize it's not the cards, or the runes, or the sigils that are doing the divining, it's you. Sure, there may be a specific meaning behind the seal, behind the Daemonic force or spirit, but how it is applicable to your situation or the situation of the person you're reading for is another story entirely. Sometimes you have to go with intuition. This brings me to another aspect of sigil divination as a whole.

With rune stones you have a specific set of meanings. However, have you ever just sat down, studied a rune, and looked at it from every angle? Have you examined it turned left, or right or upside down? If not, do it. Also consider any symbolism within it. Once you have a sigil set I suggest doing the following exercise.

You will need:

- 1 Journal
- 1 Sigil Set (of your choice)
- Thirty minutes a day.

For a half hour each day, pull one sigil from your sigil set. Examine the sigil right side up. Draw the sigil right side up in your notebook. Note how it makes you feel, what it looks like to you, any traits you notice. Then turn it a quarter turn to the right. Draw the sigil in this position in your journal. Note how it makes you feel, what it looks like to you, any traits you notice. Turn it another quarter turn to the right. The sigil should now be upside down. Do the same thing. Draw the sigil inverted in your journal. Note how it makes you feel, what it looks like to you, and any traits you notice. Finally, turn it another quarter to the right and repeat. When you're done you'll have the sigil drawn four ways with your impression of it each way.

Continue doing this, one sigil a day, until your entire sigil set is complete. Then I dare you to do a reading for yourself or someone else, using your journal as a guide to what each seal means. Sure, I could do this for you, but then we're going off of my intuition and thoughts instead of yours. I think you'll find that you tap your individual psychic abilities better if you do this part of the work on your own. I recommend every serious seer try this with runes or sigil sets. Tarot is another matter and it's a matter of finding the right deck and moving beyond the memorize, regurgitate, repeat stage. So while the actual Daemonic personality of the seal will always be at the back of your mind, what it means in the context of each reading, and in context to the seals next to it, will change with each reading.

A sample divination might be something like this:

Situation: A friend of yours, a busy mom of two, really wants to develop her own psychic intuition but she's finding it difficult. She wants you to do a reading for her to find out what's wrong. You do a four card diamond spread for her using the Dukanté sigil set.

You pull an upside down Unsere at the bottom, the sigil is Lucifuge on the left, the right sigil is Satan, and top sigil is Belial upside down.

The Reading: At the bottom you have an inverse Unseer suggesting your understanding of the problem is not as clear as it could be right now. The fact that your physical/motherly duties take up the bulk of your time could be a factor as to why your abilities haven't taken hold.

Lucifuge to the left suggests you desperately need more discipline and structure to your practice to help your ability along. Satan on the right suggests seeing the entire picture, but it may be that lack of focus that is part of the problem. An inverse Belial is the conclusion and suggests not being grounded and entirely too busy.

The Summary – your friend is far too busy and her attention is far too scattered for her to hone her natural psychic abilities. She needs more discipline and structure if she really wants to learn to access her abilities completely.

Practice. The more you read for others, the better you'll get at it. The more you pull a sigil for yourself once a day (or when seeking insight or guidance) the better off you'll find yourself. Use the sigil pot to work on your skills.

Let's say you're having a problem with a co-worker. You reach into the sigil pot and pull out Focalor. This may mean you need to be assertive and address the situation before it gets out of hand. Clearly this co-worker means harm and could potentially harm your employment. Yes, that sigil could mean all those things. Just like if you pulled Focalor in response to the question, “Should I sign the band up for battle of the bands?” Focalor would likely mean – yes, go for it! The sigil’s meaning + the question + gut instinct = meaning. It’s the same for tarot.

Doing Wheel Readings

Wheel readings are either Wheel of The Year or Zodiac Readings. I explained in the spread section how the Zodiac reading is worked. Here I’d like to talk about wheel readings. Wheel readings work great for Sigil divination (and Rune Divination). Basically what you do is pull one sigil for each spoke on the wheel. Each spoke represents a month in the coming year, starting with the current month. Each sigil is read as the primary topic for the month. A talented seer can get a great deal from a reading like this, including predicting raises, promotions, job changes, new babies, death, love, and money problems. Additional sigils can be pulled if you need more information.

Sigil Sets

The Dukanté Set:

The Dukanté set covers sixteen daemons. I know some of you might remember a little book called Daemon Stones. In that book the author walked the reader through every possible meaning any one sigil could have based on if the reading was about money, spiritual, matters, etc... Here's the thing, I won't do that here because I'm of the belief that first, the reader is smart enough to deduce these things for herself. For example, if Belial is earth, and he is stability and responsibility, then in reverse the sigil means instability and irresponsibility. This means that if you're doing a reading about money matters and you get an inverse Belial in the future, it means you'll likely experience financial woes, possibly to irresponsible financial management. Spiritually speaking an inverse Belial is instability. Love – instability, loss of love. Etc... Right side up Belial in love might mean a stable relationship. In money matters, a stable job, etc... This really is a no brainer.

So, on the following pages I'll give you the sigils, what they mean right side up and inverted and any other information that I might find relevant. Keep in mind that this is just a starting point. If you perform the sigil exercise I gave you earlier, you might find you have more to add to this. Remember that depending where the sigil is in the “sentence”, that’s how it’s read. A true seer will immediately be able to “feel” if Belial (for example), in the position it lands right side up, means a new job, more responsibility, or a promotion at work.

You might also take into account the alchemical and symbolic attributes within the seals themselves. This is entirely up to you.

If you are seeking more information on these Daemons including colors, dates, etc... see The Daemonolater’s Guide to Daemonic Magick or Daemonolatriy Goetia.

The Goetia set will include all 72 Goetic Daemons. Please note that some Daemons are shared by both hierarchies. I have simply re-asserted the same information across both sets.

The sigil's meaning + the question + gut instinct = meaning.

Belial

Element:

Earth - Dukanté hierarchy;

Fire - Goetic hierarchy.

Attributes:

Belial is all about this earthly plane, representing the physical world both literally and metaphorically. His keyword is stability. The sigil could also mean abundance, balance, prosperity, a stable job, good health, or a strong work ethic and common sense. Responsibility. In Goetia, Belial rules the ego in that he is charged with distributing honors and titles. He rewards familiars, and reconciles friends and enemies. Elementally, in the earth aspect, Belial is representative of home, health, family, and stability. In the fire aspect, he is representative of hard work and stable efforts.

Inverse Attributes

Lack of stability, irresponsibility.

Sluggishness. Stubbornness. Money problems. Loss of job. Overindulgence. Inability to make decisions. Being stubborn.

Lucifer

Element:

Air – Dukanté hierarchy.

Attributes:

The mind, mental processes, enlightenment, knowledge, and new beginnings all fall under Lucifer. Lucifer rules careers such as science, math, engineering and medicine. This can be interpreted as a new beginning or it could suggest higher learning like going back to school or getting certifications. It might also mean spiritual learning, depending on the context in which it falls. This seal could also mean, aside from the above - intelligence, creativity, free-thinking, and enlightenment. Something may come to light in the situation as well.

Inverse Attributes:

Arrogance; rejecting knowledge; ignorance; rebellion; and rejection of convention; or rejection of spirituality; or rejecting higher learning.

Flereous/Flaros

Element:

Fire – Dukante hierarchy;

Fire – Goetic hierarchy.

Attributes:

A call to action. It could also suggest great determination, love, or hard work. It may also imply a sudden burst of creativity (if you're reading for a creative type) or sudden, but harmonious changes. Strong willpower.

Inverse Attributes:

Acting hastily. Obsessive love or being obsessive about a project. Being flighty or quick to anger. Being frivolous or being egotistical.

Notes: This sigil might also suggest a baptism by fire (new beginning) or may be an instruction to try fire skrying to gain insight into your situation.

Leviathan

Element:

Water – Dukante hierarchy.

Attributes:

Honesty. Creativity. Family harmony. Fertility. Wisdom. Empathy. Emotional harmony. Good judgment. All of these things are encompassed in this sigil. If pulled in reference to someone's character you can be assured they are a friend or are understanding and sympathetic to your cause.

Inverse Attributes:

Hidden enemies. Someone is lying to you. Lack of good judgment and wisdom. It may also mean you are being judgmental. Family discord. Chaos. Emotional upset. If pulling this sigil in reference to someone's character and you get inverse Leviathan, chances are the person cannot be trusted and is not good for you.

Satan

Element:

All – Dukante hierarchy;

Fire – Other Satanic hierarchies.

Attributes:

Satan is the source of all knowledge. An aspect of the fifth element – that force that binds it all together. Rebellion against ignorance. He is often viewed as the whole of creation. Balance and flow.

Inverse Attributes:

Things will fall apart. Chaos ensues. Destruction and ruin. Obstacles arise.

Note: When pulling Satan, consider your personal feelings toward, definition of and attributes regarding Satan. Our personal perceptions color our readings whether it be sigils, tarot, or rune stones. Each seer's individual perception must be taken into account in order for a reading to be as accurate as it can possibly be. Memorizing and regurgitating meanings from a book can only take one so far.

Verrine

Element:

Airy or Earthy part of Water – Dukante hierarchy

Attributes:

Verrine represents good health, protection, medicine, and balance. However, pulled in general the seal may suggest you need to get your yearly physical, or it's time to lose weight or start eating healthy. Or it may suggest your situation could benefit from some type of healing, including, but not limited to, emotional healing. If pulled for someone else, they may need healing.

Inverse Attributes:

Illness, disease, lowered defenses and imbalance. If you read inverse meanings and you pull this it may mean an illness will come to light or that defenses are down and enemies can strike.

Amducius

Element:

Watery part of Fire – Dukante hierarchy;
Air – Goetic hierarchy.

Attributes:

Amducius is the destroyer. In his positive aspects he represents being steadfast and sure. Assertive and resolute.

He destroys fallacies (pipe dreams etc...) and enemies, or obstacles in your path. When you pull this sigil it represents strength in your situation, as well as the ability to turn situations to your favor using both facts and know-how.

Inverse Attributes:

If you invert this sigil it represents loss of a battle. Ineffective efforts. It suggests a negative outlook or pent up anger. Perhaps even hasty actions.

Unsere

Element – Watery part of Earth –
Dukante hierarchy

Attributes:

The seal of Unsere represents foundation, home, family, life, parenthood, and fertility. Pulling this sigil could imply a new baby or a new house are coming. Unsere in general is a positive sigil to pull and as an outcome, only good things come. Fertility may also apply to imagination if you are an artist, musician, or writer. Unsere is patience and understanding.

Inverse Attributes:

Unsere inverted may represent family discord, loss of home, miscarriage or infertility. Instability. Creative blocks and general inertia. It may also suggest impatience and lack of understanding.

Eurynomous

Element: Earth – Dukante hierarchy (or Earth-Air)

Attributes:

Eurynomous represents harsh change for the better. Usually the loss of a job you secretly hated, loss of friends who aren't good for you. It could even represent the loss of stability to teach you a lesson. It may also indicate feelings of loss or deep emotional discord. When not in a "loss position", Eurynomous may suggest emotional comfort, solace, and emotional well-being. It depends on the reading question, your gut instincts, and the sigils around it.

Inverse Attributes:

Death of a loved one. Sorrow, grief. Unexpected loss of home or job.

Note: The brilliant thing about Eurynomous is that even though the changes he brings may be harsh – everything will come full circle and you'll soon find yourself back on top. Sometimes life needs a severe upheaval to promote positive change. This is especially true if you're living in a stalemate.

Belphegore

Element: Earth – Dukante hierarchy

Attributes:

Belphegore represents prosperity, abundance, material gain, jobs, and stability at both work and at home. This seal means good things (monetarily) are coming your way. For creative types it may suggest selling your work or an abundance of creative energy that produces tangible results.

Inverse Attributes:

This may symbolize greed, hoarding, and selfishness that will eventually cause downfall. It may also suggest your expectations are too large or what you want from life or from others isn't realistic.

Rosier

Element: Water – Dukante hierarchy
(some say Fire-Water)

Attributes:

Good relationships, love, happiness in marriage and long term relationships. This is another seal that suggests a happy family. If you're single, this could suggest you will soon find your soul mate or one true love. Depending on the question it may also suggest self-love or being genuine and true to yourself and others.

Inverse Attributes:

Unstable home life. Upheaval in the family. Loneliness. Arrogance and/or show-off behavior may also be an issue. Not doing things for the right reasons.

Delepitoré

Element: Fire part of Water – Dukante hierarchy

Attributes:

Delepitoré is a Daemon of tangible sorceries. Pulling her sigil may suggest the practice of magick, the search for truth and wisdom, empathy, and/or psychic abilities will come to bear. Generally this is a positive sigil to pull. Depending where you pull it in the reading it may suggest a positive outcome of magick already worked, may suggest working magick, or it could be suggesting that the positive creative force of the universe is working in your favor in the situation.

Inverse Attributes:

If you pull Deleptitoré inverse it may suggest an unexpected outcome to magick (or no outcome at all), or it may suggest magick is not the answer in your situation. It may also suggest lack of empathy, psychic faculties, or abilities for magick either overall or in the particular situation the sigil was pulled for.

Tezrian

Element: Fiery part of Earth – Dukante hierarchy

Attributes:

If you pull this sigil it generally suggests you need to be on guard and proceed with great caution. It may suggest outside influences are bearing down on you in a negative way or there are hidden enemies out to get you. It may also suggest you are suffering emotional trauma due to some type of internal or external “battle”.

Inverse Attributes:

You might be overly suspicious or worried for no good reason. Anxiety, fear, and superstition. It may suggest a quick temper or hasty action that causes discord for no valid reason.

Note: Some folks see Tezrian as the ultimate cursing Daemon and when they pull this seal think they need to immediately get out the cursing implements. That may be true to some degree if the seal is pulled upright. However, if you're feeling more of an inverse meaning, don't do it. It will backfire.

Ashtaroth

Element: Earth – both Dukanté and Goetic hierarchy though some argue fire for Dukanté.

Attributes:

Pulling this sigil often signifies supportive friends will be instrumental or influential in the situation. If your question is metaphysical related, pulling Ashtaroth suggests using your own intuition or skrying on the matter to see if you can gain insight.

Inverse Attibutes:

Beware of false friends who might want to sabotage your efforts out of jealousy or secret hatred. An inverse Ashtaroth may also suggest lack of insight or lack of an ability for seeing the situation clearly. You may be too close to the situation.

Lucifuge Rofocale/Focalor

Element:

Air – Dukante hierarchy; (I've also seen Airy Earth and Airy Fire)

Water – Goetic hierarchy

Attributes:

Taking charge of a situation or one's life. Discipline, mastery and expertise are ruled by Lucifuge/Focalor. This sigil represents people in powerful positions (bosses, community leaders, politicians). May suggest a leadership role is imminent. In a situation where there are difficulties, pulling this seal suggests overcoming obstacles and defeating enemies. An overall positive outcome. In financial matters, expect a definite positive windfall.

Inverse Attributes:

Abuse of power. Manipulation of others for one's own gain. Egotistical behavior. Being the cause of drama. Creating one's own misery and problems.

Ronwe/Ronove

Element:

Airy part of Earth – Dukante hierarchy;

Air – Goetic hierarchy

Attributes:

Ronove is a Daemon of knowledge and education. Pulling Ronove suggests higher learning, going back to college, getting certifications or learning a new skill. Pulling this seal may be indicative of a research or writing project. Likewise, you may learn something new about the situation that you were unaware of before.

Inverse Attributes:

Arrogance. Behaving like a know-it-all and therefore losing one's ability to learn. Inability to learn from mistakes. Ignoring facts.

The Goetic Sigil Set:

Here there are 72 Daemons. This makes a great deck of tarot if you can find or make one. Some people may only choose a handful of Daemons for a variety of purposes from this particular sigil set instead of using all 72. This is entirely up to you and your preference in the matter.

I have included these Daemon's dates in addition to their elements. It begins with the Day Daemons and ends with the Night Daemons. If you need further attributes you can see Daemonolatry Goetia, which would complement this book greatly.

Bael

Element: Fire

Date: March 21- March 30

Attributes:

In work, a creative project will have some success. For social situations, pulling Bael suggests having a party or attending a party with friends. It's possible the asker will meet someone special. The asker may be in a position of power or authority (or be given a position of power or authority).

Inverse Attributes:

Not being recognized for one's efforts. Invisibility. Being ignored. Not being in control of one's situation.

Agares

Element: Earth

Date: March 31 – April 10

Attributes:

Pulling this seal may indicate travel. In business it may suggest wise and steady work on a project to bring it to fruition or finding a solution to a problem. In finance this seal suggests finding a way to increase your profit or grow your money. It may also suggest firm foundation and potency in business or financial dealings. Pulling this seal is usually a good indicator of success.

Inverse Attributes:

Excessive force. Bad business deals. Projects gone awry. Solutions to problems not forthcoming.

Vassago

Element: Water

Date: April 11 – April 20

Attributes:

You will find something that was lost or uncover something that was hidden. Uncovering false friends. Good negotiations between friends. Self-work has become manifest into its perfected state. May indicate the conclusion of an alchemical process - spiritually speaking.

Inverse Attributes:

Paranoia. Hidden enemies that you haven't found yet. Don't negotiate or attempt to traverse contracts. More spiritual work must be done.

Gamigin

Element: Water

Date: April 21 - 30

Attributes:

Forgiveness of others and yourself. Pulling this seal may suggest seeking counsel of the dead. This sigil may also suggest a surge of creativity and inspiration.

Inverse Attributes:

Holding a grudge. Ignoring sound advice or your inner intuition. A creative stalemate. Money troubles.

Marbas

Element: Air

Date: May 1-10

Attributes:

Pulling this seal often indicates good health or that healing is forthcoming (physical or emotional). In other areas, this seal suggests that the truth will come to bear or may suggest you stand back and look at the situation in its entirety to see the truth. May also indicate financial success. Obstacles dissolve.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse, this seal suggests illness or poor health overall. Or that the truth is hidden. It can also indicate that negative magick has manifested its result. Material troubles.

Valefor

Element: Earth

Date: May 11 -20

Attributes:

This seal brings good fortune when pulled. It suggests getting the results one wants and having gifts bestowed upon the asker.

Inverse Attributes:

Manipulation. Magick won't manifest. A string of bad luck. Working hard with no results or success.

Amon

Element: Water

Date: May 21 - 31

Attributes:

Difficulties between friends or family members will be reconciled. The future may be revealed. You will not need to push as hard as you think you have to in order to get results.

Inverse Attributes:

Strife escalates. The future is uncertain. The asker is not trying hard enough or pushing enough to get the result she needs.

Barbatos

Element: Fire

Date: June 1-10

Attributes:

The asker may find an animal needs his attention today. If the asker is a magician, pulling this seal may indicate a spiritual or magickal epiphany. The asker may find himself a mediator between friends or those higher up.

Inverse Attributes:

For magicians, pulling this seal inverse may suggest a war within a magickal group or between magicians. It may also suggest reinforcing personal wards and protections. For others this seal inverse may suggest fights or arguments between family, friends, or colleagues.

Paimon

Element: Water

Date: June 11 - 20

Attributes:

The asker will experience emotional, life or personal changes due to the situation. The asker will likely be bound to the situation until it reaches its final conclusion. There's no easy way out.

Inverse Attributes:

Emotional ruin is inevitable and also necessary. A big disappointment will come to bear.

Buer

Element: Fire

Date: June 21 – July 1

Attributes:

Emotional discord will be healed. Situations come to their logical conclusion. The asker must contemplate his situation deeply. Addictions will be overcome.

Inverse Attributes:

A moral dilemma will present itself. An addiction may be overpowering right now and keeping the asker from healing. Pulling this sigil could also suggest emotional discord or mental illness.

Gusion

Element: Water

Date: July 2 -11

Attributes:

When this sigil is pulled it generally signifies an honor has been or will soon be earned. This means if you are asking about a test score or a promotion, the likely answer is yes. The seal of Gusion may also indicate a reconciled friendship. For those immersed in spiritual work it may suggest discovery of the true self.

Inverse Attributes: I

Faults of the asker will come to bear and the asker will be forced to face them.

Sitri/Sytry

Element: Earth

Date: July 12 - 21

Attributes:

Pulling this seal may suggest a love affair or lusting after something or someone. It may mean finding a sexual partner. For non-sexual relationships this seal could indicate superficial friendships or work relationships. However, to creative projects this seal brings a great deal of passion and energy to it.

Inverse Attributes:

Inversed this seal suggests self-involvement and/or lack of intimacy between people or lack of intimate knowledge of the situation.

Beleth

Element: Earth

Date: July 22 – August 1

Attributes:

If you pull this seal, relationship problems will soon be worked through. If you are unattached, pulling this seal may suggest you will meet someone. For questions dealing with business matters a contract will be signed or a problem will be resolved.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse this seal may suggest that issues between you and your spouse or significant other still need more work before they are resolved. You may be sought after to mediate relationship conflicts between lovers or friends.

Leraje

Element: Fire

Date: August 2 - 11

Attributes:

Conflicts will be resolved. Forgiveness is possible. It may also signify moving forward and leaving past conflicts behind.

Inverse Attributes:

Pulling this seal suggests you may find yourself in conflict with someone or at odds with your situation. It can also be a warning that you're in a toxic situation or that holding a grudge is hurting you.

Note: Some people think if you pull this seal it means you should perform an execration.

Eligos

Element: Water

Date: August 12 - 22

Attributes:

False friends and hidden enemies come to light when this sigil is pulled. This seal also suggests courage and strength to face any challenge.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse, this sigil harbors hidden fears and worries. There may be an element of paranoia to the situation.

Zepar

Element: Earth

Date: August 23 – September 1

Attributes:

This seal embodies barren emotions, barren sexuality, barren relationships etc... It may indicate a frivolous love affair or petty emotions. It may call the asker to be more disciplined or prudent in these areas.

Inverse Attributes:

Conversely an inverse Zepar suggests deep, feeling emotion. Spiritual sexuality, and soulful relationships. Yet it warns of wearing one's heart on one's sleeve.

Botis

Element: Water

Date: September 2 - 11

Attributes:

Monetarily Botis brings financial opportunities. A new job or a promotion. Raise in salary or an inheritance.

Sexually, Botis brings frequent and pleasurable intimacy.

Inverse Attributes:

Financial troubles. Job loss.
Unexpected bills. Infrequent intimacy.

Bathin

Element: Earth

Date: September 12 - 22

Attributes:

Pulling Bathin suggests possible travel and symbolizes knowledge and the wealth of knowledge. This seal brings with it wealth and prosperity in the physical realm.

Inverse Attributes:

Bathin inverse implies stalemates and lack of growth (both mentally and monetarily).

Sallos

Element: Earth

Date: September 23 – October 2

Attributes:

Pulling Sallos means peaceful times are ahead. There may be a wedding in the near future. Sallos can also signify balance and harmony in all things.

Inverse Attributes:

Sallos inverse may suggest chaos and imbalance.

Note: Some believe that when this sigil is pulled from the sigil pot, if there is disharmony in the home, the person who pulled the sigil should reflect on what can be changed to bring things back into balance. A balancing rite should be performed.

Purson

Element: Earth

Date: October 3 - 12

Attributes:

While Purson is a positive Daemon in many respects, pulling his seal often indicates a deep sense of sorrow or loss. On that same token, this seal also brings with it answers. So if the asker has questions, (s)he will soon find the answers, though they might not be what (s)he was hoping for.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse Purson means the asker will overcome emotional turmoil or indicates (s)he already knows the truth of a situation.

Marax

Element: Earth

Date: October 12 - 22

Attributes:

An adversary has given up.

Conflicts will cease. There will be rest from strife.

Inverse Attributes:

Laziness. Lack of discipline. Poor effort.

Notes: A traditional, generational friend of mine tells me it's tradition that if you pull Marax's sigil out of the pot, the practitioner needs to anoint herself with Oleum of Daemonic Sorcery, burn a purification incense and carry a piece of rose quartz with her for the day. The reason for this is because Marax has something to teach or impart. Doing this, she says, promotes both concentration and learning.

Ipos

Element: Water

Date: October 23 – November 1

Attributes:

A decision must be made. Expect problems from an unexpected source.

Courage will be needed.

Inverse Attributes:

Fears will come to the forefront.
Hidden enemies may be causing problems for you. Indecisiveness.

Notes: If you are pulling Ipos from the sigil pot, expect that you need to step back from the situation and take a break from it if you can. You need perspective.

Aim

Element: Fire

Date: November 2 –12

Attributes:

New insight into your situation will come to light. For creative types, pulling Aim is often indicative of the artist's muse and may foretell of a rush of inspiration. Clear your calendar. Also suggestive of great happiness and joy.

Inverse Attributes:

In the inverse position this seal may suggest frustration and/or lack of inspiration.

Naberius

Element: Air

Date: November 13 - 22

Attributes:

Pulling this seal suggests one's honor will be restored or the truth will come to light, clearing one of wrongdoing. If you get this seal it may suggest the illusion of success. The beauty of the illusion is it can become a self-fulfilled prophecy.

Inverse Attributes:

When inverse one might expect their honor to be challenged or their integrity questioned. Conversely, this seal may mean the illusion of failure. Likewise, this, too can become a self-fulfilled prophecy.

Glasya-Labolas

Element: Fire

Date: November 23 – December 2

Attributes:

Things will begin to progress quickly. Keep your projects a secret for the time being, otherwise prying eyes could compromise its success.

Inverse Attributes:

Expect a slow-down. Share an idea with a friend. (S)He may have some insight or ideas to help you out.

Bune

Element: Earth

Date: December 3 - 12

Attributes:

This sigil, when pulled, generally means great strength or effort. If pulled for a seer it may mean the dead wish to Speak with him or her. Monetarily it suggests great rewards.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse this sigil usually suggests slacking. Poor resolve or effort results in very little.

Ronwe/Ronove

Element:

Airy part of Earth – Dukante hierarchy;

Air – Goetic hierarchy

Date: December 13 - 21

Attributes:

Ronove is a Daemon of knowledge and education. Pulling Ronove suggests higher learning, going back to college, getting certifications or learning a new skill. Pulling this seal may be indicative of a research or writing project. Likewise, you may learn something new about the situation that you were unaware of before.

Inverse Attributes:

Arrogance. Behaving like a know-it-all and therefore losing one's ability to learn. Inability to learn from mistakes. Ignoring facts.

Berith

Element: Fire

Date: December 22 - 30

Attributes:

If you pull this sigil you can be assured a change is coming, but it will be harmonious and balanced.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse, Berith suggests a harsh lesson will be learned.

Note: In some circles, to pull this sigil from the sigil pot suggests one should create tinctures the day it is pulled.

Astaroth

Element: Earth

Date: December 31 – January 9

Attributes:

Pulling this sigil often signifies supportive friends will be instrumental or influential in the situation. If your question is metaphysical related, pulling Ashtaroth suggests using your own intuition or skrying on the matter to see if you can gain insight. Monetarily it suggests a new project.

Inverse Attibutes:

Beware of false friends who might want to sabotage your efforts out of jealousy or secret hatred. An inverse Ashtaroth may also suggest lack of insight or lack of an ability for seeing the situation clearly. You may be too close to the situation.

Forneus

Element: Water

Date: January 10 - 19

Attributes:

If this seal is pulled it suggests you creating your own destiny here on this earthly plane. It may suggest a new business venture or project. You may find yourself favored by friends and colleagues when you pull this sigil.

Inverse Attributes:

Possibly legal troubles. Strife among friends or co-workers. Losing control of your world.

Foras

Element: Earth

Date: January 20 -29

Attributes:

Stability and clear thinking in business. Weigh the ethics of what you are about to do. Defeat is imminent if your actions are ethically questionable.

Inverse Attributes:

Defeat (even if you're doing what is right or ethical). A bad business deal. Avoid signing contracts.

Asmoday

Element: Air

Date: January 30 – February 8

Attributes:

If you pull this sigil it often indicates that rewards from hard work are not far off. Your success is earned. It may also suggest hard work in general. If you are an artist of some type it may suggest the birth of a new project.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse this seal may suggest that you may need more time to see your desired goals or results manifest. It may also suggest you haven't been putting forth the work necessary to reap the rewards you're expecting.

Gaap

Element: Air

Date: February 9 - 18

Attributes:

Pulling this seal may suggest an inability to focus on the situation due to pre-occupation with something else. If you are looking to thwart an adversary, pulling Gaap's seal is a favorable sign that you will succeed.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse, this sigil might suggest execration magick that backfires or a plan that doesn't go your way.

Furfur

Element: Fire

Date: February 19 - 28

Attributes:

Pulling this seal is usually indicative of feeling hopeless or feeling that continued efforts are futile. You may not be getting the truth or the whole story from others. This sigil reminds us that sometimes we have to be sure to ask the right questions.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse this seal suggests deep depression and hidden enemies (whether real or imagined).

Marchosias

Element: Fire

Date: March 1 - 10

Attributes:

Marchosias brings with him courage, strength, and great joy. To pull this seal usually indicates a yes answer or that things will turn out in your favor.

Inverse Attributes:

Pulling this seal in the inverse often indicates a great failure meant to teach discipline and/or coping skills.

Stolas

Element: Air

Date: March 11 -20

Attributes:

If you get the seal of Stolas it often suggests one must be very tactful and communicative to be successful in the situation. There is a preciseness required.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse this seal suggests overlooking details or being rash in actions or words.

Note: Some believe if you pull Stolas you should consider getting back to nature to attune yourself to the natural world. One friend said that if you pull Stolas, be sure to carry a rose quartz in your pocket for the day.

Phenex

Element: Fire

Date: March 21 - 30

Attributes:

If you pull this seal, a creative endeavor is either beginning or coming to fruition. It may even suggest getting a contract. Domestically it may suggest redecorating an existing home or moving into a new one.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse, Phenex represents the need for a creative windfall or change in one's surroundings. Monetarily it could indicate that it's time for a new job whereas right-side up, a new job may be coming to you.

Halphas

Element: Air (Fire)

Date: March 31 – April 10

Attributes:

Getting Halphas' seal indicates strong resolve (possibly to the point of stubbornness) and a strong foundation. The constant tides of life cannot sway the foundation of Halphas. This foundation is concrete and strong. Therefore this sigil suggests that the person who pulls it from the pot stand his/her ground and wait out the storm.

Inverse Attributes:

Instability and indecisiveness. A situation for which there is no stable foundation and no firm footing.

Malphas

Element: Air

Date: April 11 - 20

Attributes:

Malphas is all about perspective. To pull this seal it often means to take a step back and gather perspective. It also suggests one should pay attention to details and give the current situation his/her best work (or efforts).

Inverse Attributes:

Lack of perspective or projects thrown together in haste. Being sloppy or lazy in one's work.

Notes: If you pull Malphas out of the pot, the old wisdom is you should reinforce the wards on your home that day.

Raum

Element: Air (Fire)

Date: April 21 - 30

Attributes:

Watch out for unforeseen expenses. The seal of Raum often tells of financial trouble not too far off. Start saving money and hold off on making any business dealings or signing any contracts.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse Raum warns of having expectations that are unrealistic, wanting more than what's due you, or being selfish. In a standard reading this may suggest any of these things in context of the situation at hand.

Note: I have a friend who, if she pulls Raum, will take a telecommute day because she's worried the car will break down, she'll lose a client, or some other thing will happen where money will be lost. She believes it's safer to stay home.

Focalor/Lucifuge

Element: Water

Date: May 1 - 10

Attributes:

Taking charge of a situation or one's life. Discipline, mastery and expertise are ruled by Lucifuge/Focalor. This sigil represents people in powerful positions (bosses, community leaders, politicians). May suggest a leadership role is imminent. In a situation where there are difficulties, pulling this seal suggests overcoming obstacles and defeating enemies. An overall positive outcome. In financial matters, expect a definite positive windfall.

Inverse Attributes:

Abuse of power. Manipulation of others for one's own gain. Egotistical behavior. Being the cause of drama. Creating one's own misery and problems.

Note: This is another one of those seals that, traditionally, if pulled from the pot, suggests doing protections or using execration for persistent enemies.

Vepar

Element: Water

Date: May 11 -20

Attributes:

Pulling Vepar often indicates that a situation is not yet ripe for success. Additional paths or correlations need to be made in order to unleash the full potential for success. It may also mean you're missing a crucial element in a situation. Once that element is replaced, only then can the results manifest.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse, the seal of Vepar may suggest a complicated path or what you thought was one situation is actually two. There's more at work than meets the eye. While a right-side-up Vepar suggests success is yet to come, an inverse Vepar suggests the success of a situation (or an outcome in your favor) needs to be re-evaluated because not all is as it seems.

Sabnock

Element: Fire

Date: May 21 - 31

Attributes:

Getting Sabnock's seal often suggests it's time to keep your plans to yourself and be proactive instead of reactive. To overcome obstacles right now you might want to pull in any aggression or forceful behaviors. Basically, lay low and shut up.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse, Sabnock's seal suggests taking swift and forceful action to nip problems in the bud before they start.

Note: Pulling this seal traditionally suggests you need to reinforce your astral wards.

Shax

Element: Air

Date: June 1 - 10

Attributes:

Pulling the seal of Shax is traditionally considered a bad omen. It often indicates miscommunication causing offense or insult. It may also indicate emotional turmoil in the situation caused by hurtful words said in anger.

Inverse Attributes:

On the upside (yes, pulling this seal has an upside), an inverse Shax sigil may indicate seeing the light at the end of the tunnel. You will likely find an unexpected solution to a problem. You may not even realize there was a problem until the solution suddenly comes to you.

Vine

Element: Water

Date: June 11 -20

Attributes:

While some may consider Vine yet another bad omen, I prefer to see vine as the situation that requires a unique, possibly drastic, solution. Pulling vine often indicates nothing is going a person's way or that ruin in the situation is imminent on its current path. This is because all the traditional approaches to the situation are incorrect. This sigil may often indicate a person needs to remove him or herself from the situation. This may mean quitting the bad job, getting out of the bad relationship, or allowing one's spouse to manage the money.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse Vine's sigil foretells of creative solutions to problems, epiphanies, and general success through untraditional means. Vine's keyword, if he had one, would be unconventional.

Bifrons

Element: Earth

Date: June 21 – July 1

Attributes:

Bifrons' seal often foretells of good friends, good times, and love. If Bifrons is pulled after the death of a loved one it foretells of emotional healing of grief. It may also indicate fond memories of loved ones.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse, Bifrons may warn of living too much in the past or may indicate the person who pulled the seal should spend more time cultivating relationships with their loved ones on this earthly plane. It indicates a disconnect between the asker/seeker and his or her loved ones.

Uvall/Vual

Element: Water

Date: July 2 -11

Attributes:

The seal of Uvall tells of emotional abundance. It may indicate a party or social gathering is forthcoming where the person the seal is pulled for will feel welcome and loved. It may also indicate a strong support system and good friends who are willing to offer advice or lend an ear. Finally, it could suggest making new friends.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse, Uvall suggests spending a great deal of time alone in introspection. It may also indicate a lack of a social network or support system in the situation, suggesting the person the reading is for should seek to cultivate their relationships with others if they need a support system.

Haagenti

Element: Earth (Water)

Date: July 12 - 21

Attributes:

Haagenti's seal often indicates a person who can make even the worst day seem like a great one. Pulling this seal may suggest a positive outlook. It can also indicate that you should go with the flow and expect everything to turn out all right, because it will.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse this seal warns against overindulgence, being lazy or simply having unrealistic expectations of a situation.

Crocell

Element: Water

Date: July 22 – August 1

Attributes:

This seal indicates an argument or rivalry may come to light. It may even be the beginning of a longer battle (or part of an ongoing one). Traditionally it's suggested that he who pulls Crocell from the pot should make a mental note of his strengths and weaknesses and then the strengths and weaknesses of his enemy and proceed taking all of this into account. In business, make sure you have read all the documentation or contracts before going into negotiations. In friendships or ex-relationships, go into "battle-like" situations with your arguments well-reasoned and documented if necessary. In legal battles, consult your lawyer if you pull Crocell.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse this seal suggests being overly cautious. Possibly even paranoid.

It may suggest anal retentiveness and too much focus on fine details.

Furcus

Element: Air

Date: August 2 -11

Attributes:

This seal often indicates success in legal matters or in learning. It may also suggest getting a contract for a creative project.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse this seal may indicate a postponed decision or a mental block preventing one from retaining new information or learning a new skill. For creative types, an inverse Furcus may mean a creative block.

Balam

Element: Earth

Date: August 12 - 22

Attributes:

Balam's seal often indicates success in social situations, or that you will be seen favorably by others. It also suggests you should keep your plans and works secret for now (until you can see a measurable result).

Inverse Attributes:

Shyness or social awkwardness may give people the wrong impression of you. Your secrets may be found out. Work may not manifest the desired results.

Alloces

Element: Fire

Date: August 23 – September 1

Attributes:

Alloces' seal suggests working methodically and carefully to see measurable results. Often this seal is an indication to be cautious or prudent in the situation.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse this seal may be telling you to establish clear boundaries with others. It can also suggest that there is a lack of foundation and focus in the situation.

Camio

Element: Fire

Date: September 2 -11

Attributes:

Camio brings to light all the possibly paths leading to the desired result. Generally this seal indicates material gain in the way of a new job, a raise, or a promotion, or simply more money through hard work. The seal may also be telling you to broaden your horizons and consider all your options.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse Camio suggests myopic vision or a stalemate. The inability to see different viewpoints or opportunities. It may further indicate unexpected bills or expenses.

Murmur

Element: Water Fire

Date: September 12 - 22

Attributes:

Obstacles will dissolve, questions will be answered. All will be revealed. The path is clear. This seal may also indicate the need to get more training, go back to school, or get certifications.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse, Murre is exactly the opposite of the above. The inability to see. Obstacles seem insurmountable. Questions cannot be answered. The path is filled with obstacles, potholes, and too much uncertainty. It's probably not a good time to go back to school either.

Orobas

Element: Water

Date: September 23 – October 2

Attributes:

Orobas brings peace and balance. If you've recently been fighting with someone or been in a situation where you feel you've been fighting, now is a time of rest because it's all come full circle and all is again how it should be. Balance is restored. Spiritual harmony is also an attribute of Orobas.

Inverse Attributes:

Expect a relationship to get rocky or for the two of you to not see eye-to-eye on something. This particular seal inversed simply means imbalance and perhaps even some minor chaos.

Gremory

Element: Water

Date: October 3 - 12

Attributes:

You will find the missing pieces (or something that was lost). The missing piece may be a revelation of the self.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse this seal brings great sorrow and possibly loss.

Note: Some believe that pulling this seal means you will be attending a funeral soon, or will know someone who will be attending a funeral.

Ose

Element: Air

Date: October 12 - 22

Attributes:

You and an adversary (or adversarial situation) will strike up a truce. Whether this is temporary, lasting, or feigned can be determined by surrounding sigils.

Inverse Attributes:

A truce is not likely. There are more difficulties ahead.

Amy

Element: Fire

Date: October 23 – November 1

Attributes

To pull Amy often means you will see deeply into a person or situation. Knowing a person's true motivation or the stark reality of a situation is always unpleasant, but it will give you a sense of what you do and don't want in your life.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse Amy gives a strong heads up that something is going down. It's a sign to trust your instincts in the situation. Whether inverse or right side up, Amy always brings insight whether good or bad and it's good to pay attention to those feelings you receive.

Orias

Element: Air

Date: November 2 - 12

Attributes:

Pulling Orias often foretells of good times with friends or resolutions with enemies. Health-wise, pulling Orias' seal generally means there is an area of your health you're neglecting and you should address it.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse Orias suggests lack of willpower, self-neglect or abuse (mental or physical) or causing your own drama in social situations.

Vapula

Element: Air

Date: November 13 - 22

Attributes:

When you pull Vapula's seal from the pot, it may mean a new project. For creative types it could suggest getting to work. It also suggests creating beauty for others, perhaps by cooking a meal or putting together a party. This seal is generally a positive omen overall.

Inverse Attributes:

An inverse Vapula suggests you need to get out more. You're out of touch. You're creatively blocked. Answers may not be forthcoming due to lack of creative thinking.

Zagan

Element: Earth

Date: November 23 – December 2

Attributes:

A situation or person is the opposite of what you think. In situations where you think you want a certain thing, you may discover the opposite is true. For business, you have the power to turn things around and make them go your way.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse, Zagan may indicate an addiction or an abusive relationship. It may also indicate being indecisive.

Volac

Element: Earth

Date: December 3 - 12

Attributes:

Good organization. Great strength. A project has a chance of turning out good or being received well. Volac is also said to foretell of promotions or exaltation to a leadership role in some area of one's life. Socially or romantically, Volac will find you leading your friends on an excursion of some sort.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse, Volac warns of being overbearing or judgmental. Excessive work. No sense of humor.

Andras

Element: Air Fire

Date: December 13 - 21

Attributes:

Someone is not telling you the entire truth in this situation. Andras' seal often foretells of calamity and oppression, usually through omission of facts. Andras may also indicate a quick temper that causes more problems than it solves. In situations where two people are at odds, pulling Andras may foretell that things are coming to a head and a confrontation will occur. Resolutions will be quick and often final.

Inverse Attributes:

Andras inverse indicates uncovering a lie or omission of facts.

Haures

Element: Fire

Date: December 22 – 30

Attributes:

A call to action. It could also suggest great determination, love, or hard work. It may also imply a sudden burst of creativity (if you're reading for a creative type) or sudden, but harmonious changes. Strong willpower.

Inverse Attributes:

Acting hastily. Obsessive love or being obsessive about a project. Being flighty or quick to anger. Being frivolous or being egotistical.

Notes: This sigil might also suggest a baptism by fire (new beginning) or may be an instruction to try fire skrying to gain insight into your situation.

Andrealphus

Element: Air

Date: December 31 – January 9

Attributes:

It is time for a new job or a new position within your company. This seal may also suggest starting a new business.

Inverse Attributes:

Likewise, if Andrealphus is inverse, it may not be a good time to change jobs, apply for a new position, or start a business.

Cimejes

Element: Earth

Date: January 10 -19

Attributes:

You can wow people with your knowledge in this situation, just use your powers for good instead of evil. This seal also indicates the situation (or person) may need a bit of persuasion to point things in your direction. In general, pulling this seal is often a positive indicator meaning all systems are go, all roads are clear.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse Cimejes suggests a lack of communication, a lack of skill, or a lack of know-how. Generally it means proceed with caution, or make sure you understand the situation (or person) more completely before acting.

Amducius

Element: Air

Date: January 20 - 29

Attributes:

Amducius is the destroyer. In his positive aspects he represents being steadfast and sure. Assertive and resolute.

He destroys fallacies (pipe dreams etc...) and enemies, or obstacles in your path. When you pull this sigil it represents strength in your situation, as well as the ability to turn situations to your favor using both facts and know-how.

Inverse Attributes:

If you invert this sigil it represents loss of a battle. Ineffective efforts. It suggests a negative outlook or pent up anger. Perhaps even hasty actions.

Belial

Element: Fire (Earth)

Date: January 30 – February 8

Attributes:

Belial is all about this earthly plane, representing the physical world both literally and metaphorically. His keyword is stability. The sigil could also mean abundance, balance, prosperity, a stable job, good health, or a strong work ethic and common sense. Responsibility. In Goetia, Belial rules the ego in that he is charged with distributing honors and titles. He rewards familiars, and reconciles friends and enemies. Elementally, in the earth aspect, Belial is representative of home, health, family, and stability. In the fire aspect, he is representative of hard work and stable efforts.

Inverse Attributes

Lack of stability, irresponsibility.
Sluggishness. Stubbornness. Money

problems. Loss of job. Overindulgence.
Inability to make decisions. Being stubborn.

Decarabia

Element: Air

Date: February 9 - 18

Attributes:

Pulled, this seal suggests freeing oneself of obstacles through either creative thinking or hard work. It may also be indicative of uncovering a deception that might be holding one back.

Inverse Attributes:

Inverse this seal often indicates self-deception or a serious lack of effort.

Note: Traditionally when this seal is pulled from the pot it means more effort needs to be put into self-work.

Seere

Element: Air (Fire)

Date: February 19 - 28

Attributes:

Seere often indicates a stalemate or success yet unfulfilled due to a stalemate. It may mean the asker is feeling hopeless about their situation. It may also indicate rash actions due to emotional instability.

Inverse Attributes:

Seere is actually quite a good natured Daemon and inverse his seal gives clearer perspective and insight into situations that may appear, superficially, hopeless. Seere inverse keeps emotions in check.

Dantalion

Element: Water

Date: March 1 –10

Attributes:

To pull Dantalion is a good omen and if pulled from the pot means you're going to have a good day. You may get good news or receive a bit of unexpected extra money. It may also indicate a good day with a lover or partner.

Inverse Attributes:

Things are not as bad as they seem. The asker may simply be seeing and focusing on that one bad thing amidst all the good things. Expectations may be too high.

Andromalius

Element: Fire

Date: March 11 -20

Attributes:

Andromalius often foretells of extreme happiness. Good news is coming. Pulling Andromalius from the pot suggests you're going to have a very happy day.

Inverse Attributes:

Being overly sensitive or overly emotional. It may also indicate paranoia.
