Suggestions to those coming to Nefta.

1. Baggage - preferably small pieces to one large. Also best in sacks or rucksacks etc. A travelling rug for train.
2. Clothing - the kind of things you can lie about in on the dust and in the grass. Dark glasses, large light-weight hat. Sandals very convenient.
3. Trip from Tunis
 (Tunis - Sousse - Sfax - Tozeur - 1 day & night. First class fare about 112 fr. No sleepers but Sfax - Tozeur trains reasonably comfortable. Don't know about dining car - we came another way. Tozeur - Nefta automobile (30 fr) 40 minutes (more likely to be 2½ - 5 hours) Be prepared to get off and push. * Otherwise by camel or walk.
4. Sovers of biscuits, tea, special tobacco & cigarettes bring supply. Stationery niente qui. Medicines ditto. Toilet articles ditto ad infinitum. A camera, by all means.

* The chauffeur was just the day we came - he's making good time now.

Thine proposal for AC

- It is a long while since you heard of me.
- Like Byron I woke up and found myself famous.
What contracts do you propose to offer me?
- Any arrangement would include the prepayment* of the travelling expenses of myself and secretary, and a substantial guarantee of the tour.

I think I had better leave it to you to feel the pulse of the public with regard to the actual subjects of the lectures. As you know, I am familiar with every branch of Occult Science, and can suit myself to any conceivable audience.

93

* In case you do not know how famous I am, I refer you to the recent series of twelve double-page feature stories by William B. Seabrooke of the International Feature Syndicate, which have attained a publicity as wide as their statements are fabulous. I am quite sure that the wild and woolly will put down any imaginable percentage of their dirty dollars to see and hear in the flesh the original of so many sensational falsehoods. In fact I do not propose to accept any figure notably inferior to that of my dear friend Poirys. To whom please give my love when you next see him.

My dear Blanche Conn,

Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law.

I assume that the 3333 francs received a few days ago comes from you. It pulled us through. For all that I have to enclose a copy of a letter I am writing to Leah's sister (Mrs. Bliss, 156 East 49 Street? - last address known) I haven't the slightest idea what our circumstances are and I have been careful not to discuss the matter with Leah. I assure her that somehow or other I will keep her from going under. Her courage is positively infernal. She is intensely happy in her love and her work - it is the actual physical strain which has begun to break her down. I have myself been very ill all the year, feally from this cause. I have now got a man, in fact more than one, to devote themselves to straightening out our affairs and all that is necessary is to arrange for Leah to be nursed, fed up etc., till her health comes back and the money comes in, when we shall be able to pay back the people who have helped us through. Our assets are of course very huge indeed. I should be worth net far short of a million dollars at this moment if it were not for the ghastly persecution which the envious have kept up so long.

If you can spare any more, please cable it as before to Norman Ludd, Crédit Lyonnais, Tunis.

Love is the law, love under will,

P.S. At this moment of writing it is clear from recent events that Mussolini is coming smash and a big one. I have been expecting it of course for a year. His action in expelling me from Italy was typical of the arbitrary and unjust tyranny of the man. The point is that his fall may mean a Number One size revolution and I might at any moment need funds to get Sister Cypris and the children out of the murder zone.

My dear friends,

Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law.

I have been in great trouble and very ill, so also has Mlle. Squelette. She will be coming to Paris in a few days. Please find her a nice room at the back of the house. I hope to come myself a little later. Please keep any letters for either of us until we arrive.

I have not forgotten that I owe you 2000 francs or whatever it is. My novel has been a tremendous success and I shall be able to pay you as soon as my royalties begin to come in. I meant to do so in the spring but the tyrannical outrage which I suffered at the hands of Russell stripped me of every spare sou so that I have been in desperate need of money ever since. I am sure you will understand and sympathise. My troubles are principally due to my loyal and passionate love of France and the principles political and ethical of your great republic.

I feel sure however that I shall be able to pay you in full within a month of my reaching Paris at the latest. One great difficulty has been the delay caused by my being so far away from the centre of any business.

I hope to hear that you are both in the best of health and prospering in every way. My kindest regards also to your nephew and niece. Both Lea and I are looking forward eagerly to seeing you again.

Love is the law, love under will.

P.S. I will wire date of arrival as soon as I know it so as to give you time to get the room ready. I prefer the first or second floor at the back but I would rather have a quite small room than one at the front; the autobus prevents me from sleeping.

Leah's mother

My dear Alma,

Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the law.

You remember that I wrote you about a year ago that Leah was in great danger. I have done all I can in the most difficult circumstances and I am glad to say that the threatened consumption has been averted, for the time being, at least.

But still she droops. She has no strength. She is thinner than ever. The Doctor here - a very sound man - says her best chance is to rest and feed up.

The trouble is chiefly lack of money. The expulsion from Italy trebled our expenses and we have practically no funds.

My novel has been a huge success in America and when the royalties come in I shall be quite well off again. But if Leah were to die first, it wouldn't be much good to me, would it?

You have yourself suffered two great losses recently -- you will understand how I feel.

I want you to raise as much cash as you can -- at least 500 is needed at once to avert utter smash (we have been short of food all summer - and Lea needs above all building up and free freedom from the constant strain of anxiety.)

It should be given to a bank in New York to be cabled to the credit of Professor Norman Mudd, Crédit Lyonnais, Tunis. I am sure that if you show this letter to Wanny, Blanche Conn, Elsie Sloan (of whom Leah has spoken a great deal) Raymond and other relatives and friends, the 500 can be made up. There should be a second 500 before Leah; by that time I hope to begin to get my royalties and so to pay back this money, a bit at a time, of not all at once.

But I also want you to come personally to live with Leah. She is in absolute need of a sister's love and care. I want to be away from her till she is much stronger. When I am with her, she tires herself out "taking care of me" - I can't stop her. (It is also essential to take Hansi from Gefeil and have him educated. He is splendid but needs such supervision and teaching, and surroundings of a new kind.)

It should be given to a bank in New York to be cabled to the credit of Professor Norman Kudd, Crédit Lyonnais, Tunis. I am sure that if you show this letter to Fanny, Blanche Conn, Elsie Sloan (of whom Leah has spoken a great deal) Hammond and other relatives and friends, the 500 can be made up. There should be a second 500 before Kudd; by that time I hope to begin to get my royalties and so to pay back this money, a bit at a time, of not all at once.

I beg you most earnestly to do this without wasting a moment. I am distressed beyond anything I can say to see Leah fading away slowly - so sweet, patient, bright, loving; yet so weak that she can hardly get up to go out for a meal; and to feel so powerless to save her. With fresh air, good food, your tender care added to mine, rest of body and mind, she will get well and strong in a few months. (Her stay in Cefalù in July and August did wonders; but in this last month she has grown rapidly worse.) I had hoped to send her away, first to Cefalù, and thence on to France but have found it impossible. I hope you will come to Europe as soon as possible.

Love is the law, love under will.

P.S. I would give my life to save Leah - so would you I hope and believe - if anything I could do would help out about the money (e.g. my sending you an order to my publishers to repay you out of my royalties when they fall due - I enclose this for you to fill in and send to them if you wish; if not please destroy it -) Even if I did not love her as I do, I should know her for the sweetest woman alive, and give my all to save her - and the sake of the world itself of which she is the nearest treasure and the loveliest ornament.

See II-37. The great miss was Quarda's toying etc. On our return to England her family laughed her out of continuing my programme. My idea of the S.W. is much like yours. Aimée Gouraud, or much better, Eva Tanguay, or even, at a pinch, Roddie Minor, might fill the bill, but I expect some one much younger. She should be my concubine for form's sake but bust up society on her own, acting as Binah to my Chokmeki. I have always doubted whether Abstrael could do this job and she did fail in one Supreme Ozeal. Hence, no doubt, the present necessities. She has the qualities however of S.W. but no opportunity. We do not want a vulgar adulteress like Lady Abby or even a selfish stupid debauchee like Aimée Gouraud. Eva Tanguay is the ideal if she were 10 years younger. My feeling is that the Riel Man should come first and pour his gold. We need practically unlimited supplies - no pitiful $20,000.

"Abstraction" - in Ms. A and is doubly underlined. My idea was a portmanteau "abstraction, obstruction" i.e. overcome of position of Museum Authorities and take away the Sticks. I think "heart" does mean Tiphareth.

Murray should come on from Cephalic bringing various necessities of which Abstracted in- closes a list. Her policy is to put every newcomer through the ordeal of personal contact with me. If he comes out safe he is a King! (Your own excitement in sending the telegram was what alarmed me. You showed the tendency already in South Africa and in your Tunis Ordeal). There was nothing in your message requiring verbose agitation.)

You should send your present view of my work to Fuller, telling him that I am now prepared to act in a kingly way and fulfil my mission as AL lays down. I think this should reach him. He knows the importance of AL. If he agrees, get him to join me at once to propose strategical plans.

3. I cannot see this in AL and doubt whether your view of psychology is confirmed by history. I wish I had a good history of Mohammed methods from the start.

B. I agree theoretically but regard myself as having been tested. I think I had to be rendered proof against the frightful danger success. (Observe Mussolini's flunk to the Vatican) Read Browning's "A Soul's Tragedy"
again. I don't want Ogilby to know a 20th. leader of revolt.

C.1 You recur to secrecy. Do please give your authority.

You are wrong about my compassion.
You have yourself accused me of hacking
through moral hedges etc.

Rest assured in any case that any official act of mine will be Thelematic.

I have always been secret in such matters, as are dealt with in I-10, 50.

(I doubt whether the word "secret"
used in AK in its vulgar sense. I assimilate it to ideas in secreation.)

(Note II-54. It was foreseen that I should need the long painful initiation
with which you reproach me.)

D. I entirely agree. I wrote nearly 40 words in 3 hrs. 25 min. I have avoided reading the ms. I consider it vital repeat the work for Chaps. II & III on the appointed days. There are, I think, 3 or words only of more than 2 syllables.
Multitudes, energy, fulfillment, another
each occurs once only.

As already stated I agree entirely with your final remarks. Do impress your view of the whole situation on N.S.F. He is almost certainly waiting for a lightning flash of this kind. I impress upon him also that I do not urge him in any way to resume cooperation; but that if at any time I should discover that I need him I shall summon him authoritatively, and was to him if he refuses to obey! At the same time if in his judgment the time has come for him to volunteer, I shall be glad to see him and hear his proposals for establishing the Acorn.)

E. I have long since done this. You should understand that the sensitive part side of me is my intelligence department.

F. I admit the Freudian evasions though not specially in III-10, 11. But I analyzed them and if any such remain in the text of the Commentary it is because I wished to conceal my views from the profane. Compare my statement in Pt. II Pt. III about sacrificing 150 male children per annum.

You cannot have it both ways - reproaching me for tattling and for silence.

G. My views should already be clear from various remarks above.

I feel quite sure that I shall be in perfect shape by the Solstice, provided my retirement is undisturbed.

Mrs. Marion Clark 1 West 85 St. New York City - Enclose ² summons for her. Your answering letter should make it clear that a real thing can endure hardship and think it a joke. Her enemy has been the bourgeois tradition that as long as you dress for dinner, and the Presbyterian minister smiles when you pass, you are a great Adept. But her nature is real royal; and she can accomplish a tremendous work for the Law provided she has the contemptuous courage required to face the bourgeois. You can tell her that I was a mistake in not keeping my power secret and so avoiding abuse etc.; but I did this deliberately in order to familiarize myself with the conditions of the profane, as Peter the Great worked in a ship builder's yard in order to fit himself to be the greatest of Tsars.

I think that Aimée Gouraud (after all may quite well understand your program. She has bucked the bourgeois for years and glorified in her "bad reputation". But she should not submit to this. She should go all out to make the dirty dogs feel what dirty dogs they are. Furthermore, she must really understand that the hangers-on who haunt her in the hope of swindling her ^{money} or later in one way or another are not poor high-minded gentlemen but bourgeois with even the poor piffing virtues of the bourgeois. Let her learn to associate with people her own kind and use all her resources to put the kings on their thrones.

Do not shrink the fact that from my point of view you are a pure peak of nature.

From the standpoint of stirps you are pure cansille (I say this without in the least forgetting Hanks in Salambô, of whom you remind me strongly) in which a very extraordinary personality and a quite first-class intellect have got entangled. Many of your social attitudes are due to a complex set up by this conflict.

Do not mistake me about cansille. If you had a ducal pedigree from the birth of chivalry it would be the same. Your shape and clumsiness are ochlotie. Your noble qualities resent being tied up with the ungainly instrument. I understand you very well in this matter. You are the alter-Ego of my Klopis incarnation. We are all liable to similar accidents.)

I break off because my meditations on your letter produced a strong impression that Altostrael who got last night spontaneously
a lunar vision of probably great importance should to-night make a direct attempt to get into immediate personal communication with the Secret Chief. (Note that last night was the first vision of any value or interest whatever that she has hitherto obtained.)

Dear Frater, (Dated

Your further letter (Oct. 28) with Glacier incarnation enclosed. First, I want you to note your extreme inconsistency in policy. You once proposed to wind up the old Aeon gloriously by my physical crucifixion and seemed to consider me a cheap sport for not gushing about it.

Your present ^{in 59x} views fit mine more closely. See John St. John P. 134 & 3, when I was refused death because I had to rule the earth. I require absolute and unquestioning obedience and the recognition that I possess in my own right everything. It is up to you to make this effective as a matter of organization. I object to going around and deigning my subjects for tribute. I expect everything which I will ~~to~~ be carried out promptly and efficiently. ^{submitted by The Ignorance of the Gods.}

III - 39. is not easy to carry out partly because interpretation is obscure or ambiguous. Anyhow, Part II of Book 4 as already written must be taken definitely as a book to say "how thou didst come hither". As to the reproduction, ~~that~~ of course is a matter for the best people available and they should send their best men with camera etc. to me. I do not want to trust the ms. out of my hands anywhere. I am prepared to do this immediately - it is up to you to make arrangements. By the time the reproduction is ready I will have the Comment ready. it can then be printed ~~using our own press draft letter~~

Dere Frater, (Pictorial)
93 (Oct 31)

Your further letter (Oct 28) with Glacier incarnation enclosed. First, I want you to note your extreme inconsistency in policy. You once proposed to wind up the old Aeon gloriously by my physical crucifixion and seemed to consider me a cheap sport for not gushing about it.

Your present views fit mine more closely. See John St. John P. 134 & 93, when I was refused death because I had to rule the earth. I require absolute and unquestioning obedience and the recognition that I possess in my own right everything. It is up to you to make this effective as a matter of organization. I object to going around and dipping my subjects for tribute. I expect everything which I will have carried out promptly and efficiently.

I agree with the ~~main~~ theses of your letter on the whole. You have completely misunderstood my policy though it should have been clear from Egg III 1 or 2; the supreme and holy King is absolute in person. But after me the succession to be guaranteed and also the minor offices even now by training men to rule. They must be freed from fear and greed. My idea is to reestablish the principle of honour as the first condition of authority. Any type of discussion, voting and such balls is to be eliminated. I have always made it a cardinal point of my programme to suppress newspapers and magazines. I shall permit the circulation of actual facts without restriction, e.g. the market price of staple products, earth quakes, etc. but there is to be no falsification, cant, or ~~misinterpretation~~ manipulation of facts for propagandist purposes. I must free the world from the obsession of hypnotizing scribblers. Generally speaking, nothing is to be published unless it claims either to possess permanent value as in the case of poetry, essays, scientific researches and the like, or to be news necessary to the transaction of affairs. I think there should be some classification of readers, e.g.

reports of divorce cases and the like are facts and of profitable study to lawyers, (if I leave my slave, which I doubt) but merely distract and degenerate the public at large, poisoning and corrupting their minds which might attain great things if properly nourished.

Of course the many shall have no power - they never have had, as Otto Kahn once told me.

My idea of freedom is roughly this: to remove all restriction from all men.

I consider newspapers a restriction. The growth of children being stunted by giving I do not allow them to drink it, helping their Will by my intelligence. "The people" must be treated as ignorant children. At the same time each one is a star and has the right to assume kingly power demonstrating his fitness for it by undergoing the ordeals.

Your section F - go right ahead. I really cannot see why you should have hesitated to be wholly frank with me. Your first duty is to interpret my will as rendered intelligible by the S.W. in intellectually comprehensible language.

G. I do not agree that the Hay should be dropped. You yourself insisted that its publication was my magical Weapon and we all nearly killed ourselves getting out the first draft. The except-and help us sort out the kings. The vindication is only required in order to facilitate the publication and distribution.

I should much prefer to issue it lack is the funds. You surely understand that one is always having to do this one does not want in order to make possible what one does. (One does not

I don't understand my summoning you to Tunis cutting short your criticism. My only reason for wanting you was that you might continue it in the fullest way.

The truth of the whole business is that you were totally unfit to work with me. You had to be initiated. Hence Alostrael's stunt of pretending to be in love with you etc. All means were tried to bewilder and baffle you to beset you and shape your loyalty. It was a pretty near thing. You seem now morally prepared to explore your intellectual and philosophical weakness
and incompetence. (Surti) Your mind is childishly fickle, capricious, and pitifully dependent. You are a slave to the false logic which persuaded you that its limitations are laws. Your thought is a reed shaken by the wind,
the wind of a frog's fart. You mistake your lack of simplicity for organic development. You call your dead leaf, blown hither and thither by Equinoval gales, freedom of movement and sensitiveness to truth. You have as Eddie says, perhaps the finest intellect now incarnate, and you are for that reason a world's champion footer.

Your treatment of the text of the Book of the Law is extremely significant of your intellectual incoherence and inadequacy. Like a Plymouth Brother your criticism in and out

you quote Verse A without reference to the apparent contradiction of verse B and visa versa, whereas neither A nor B is intelligible without reference to the
C. which reconciles them.

A notable symptom of your ^{intellectual} atony, if not atrophy, complicated by moral dementia and spiritual hysteria,
is your inability to simplify your mind
so as to think and act consistently and firmly. These letters themselves contain innumerable examples of incompatible ideas. You appear not to have the art of summing up a situation and eliminating all the rough working as soon as the decision is made.
Having decided on a policy one must refuse to pore up the old arguments
as hash and reconsider the problem ab ovo. E.g. we decided about the Haq, vindication etc., the entire programme of A.I. in Oxford, and you now suggest dropping everything on the ground of some obscure scholastic-sewerage about AL.

How do learn this once and for all.
Set us assume that our plans for A.I. were one mass of muddled moon-calgary - none the less it should be carried out with ^{determined} determination and its bitter lesson learnt. But he who hesitates is lost. No series of stupid-ties is as fatal as the slightest vacillation.

I don't know whether ~~this~~ is in AL or ~~not~~ and I don't care - it is absolute Magic -
the very first principle of the "work of the wand". True, I may (willing to begin a new Semiramis) find myself bugging
the left nostril of an ant-eater with clap, pox, soft chancre, and ulcerating granuloma of the pudenda. But the discovery should not diminish my erection or inhibit my ejaculation.

Do please get this into your ~~finger~~^{thumb}
Carry things out right or wrong once you have started them without thought of result. The habit of pushing through error to its climax and disaster tires Tychei who says finally "There seems to be no fun in trying to irritate this obstinate ass I by punishing his mistakes. I will amuse myself by crowning his most colossal blunders with some irrational success".

You seem to see this yourself when you admit having been inhibited from obviously proper action by worrying
'have I any right - suppose I am wrong
etc.

At this moment I command you to "drop your knavery and get on simply with the appointed programme."

You will at the same time continue your criticism in the fullest and most uncompromising manner.

You are there to guide my Will but also to execute it per A.I. and you must not muddle the two functions. id est, you are absolutely commanded to criticize me before I announce my Will and after the execution of that Will, but during the process of execution you are absolutely forbidden to make a destructive criticism.

Of course I have never forgiven you about that letter which you destroyed. That did not excuse its contents being kept secret. You might have been compelled to reveal them under torture. The only possible course of action was to have blown your brains out on the spot. Though I course only after having killed off all the clairvoyants and sealed letter readers who might possibly have got an inkling of its nature.

The above illustrates your exaggerated way of dealing with affairs. It is indicative of intellectual or nervous instability. If I write 'Keep secret the matter' I mean no more than use ordinary precautions not to let it be bruited abroad. I should have been careful to say 'destroy the letter' if I had thought such a course advisable. Nothing is more irritating to me than to have to witness such violations of common sense. It is no excuse whatever to confront me with my instructions and prove that they have been literally obeyed. I may not be able to punish you for disobedience but I attach a penalty even more severe to making an ass of myself.

To insist on my defining my terms is Simian violence amounting to lese-majeste. I have absolutely no patience with pedantry of the rationalistic sort. Clodd was bad enough but when that Clodd by dint of being fussed upon dissolves in Modd, good-night!
