Mrs L. G.

I shall send you the receipted bills for clothes, & hold on to balance of bill Sept 21.

K. won't use any of this money. This is noble, but a nuisance as she doesn't want to get to work till she's dressed.

Let's hope her cash comes in time.

She has my letter & will write when digested.

Yrs affectionate bro.

P.S. the clothes aren't wanted Price.

Secy & house are paid out of salary. Could send on that, too, once the house was there.

Yes: I think boils & Brummagem a bilious combination.

Yr ear reckon as Re Gods.

Yr letter depressed H. too; reactive against doing it.

But he who hesitates &c.

Things are going to go big.

We thought the enclosed note would serve to show the hunter, in case other sources fail.

Please let me know at once if this is so, as in that case K will feel free to buy a few things.

Other contracts differ from K's by having no salary clause. The inducement is 6% for 5 years, but aside out of capital, (?), & up to 25% paid out of net trading profits.

K's letter was not definitive, but a general guide.

A long letter from Jenner this a.m. He hedges with all sorts of pessimistic self-reproaches & complainings; but Cora Eeta will put up $5.000.00/100 at least when she gets back from her holiday - I suppose about end Sept.

The one genuine obstacle is the question of prudence. They fail to realize that you are a business man, & that I shall leave the whole management of the affair in your hands. I have reassured Jenner on these points; but you might do the same, & clinch it.

The question now arises whether, other sources failing, we should not go ahead with preparations in Paris for the possible German tour. (I'm sending you to Jenner by this mail.) I should like to be ready to start by Oct 1., in case the invitation arrived, & not have to wait for tailors &c.

It is, as I said, purely a matter for your business judgment.

If you think it right to trust the Gods to this extent, write me here on receipt of this, & transfer £200 to Paris. I would then travel straight up, & set to work. But if you have the least doubt & fear — don't do it!

Foreman. a grouchy letter again. All we want from him at the most is his help in the Pickfords business. (Mark letter to keep strictly off all other subjects.) I'm not sure either that this help amounts to much. Bayley's does.

Publicity J. C. Squire of London Mercury & ? Middleton Murry (sic). Athenaeum might be sounded. I think both are friendly, but scared. The appeal should, I think, be for fair play & the honour of English Literature. (To be taken in a little sugared water.) Nothing about Magick: at least not until the book is ready. Pure poetry only.

Ka sends his love. K. jun is on holiday, & doesn't write. But has been asked for details. Soan's future depends on K's affairs, which may fix at present. I hope we can arrange all these small matters before the Equinox, & start everything right from that date: direct creative effort as opposed to clearing house.

K. wrote you this A.M. definitely about the £1000. I think it good enough, as she is very keen to get to work, & has all the qualities required to negotiate between me & the natives. She quite understands that she has got to make good, & that she must devote herself to the job without allowing her personal views to interfere.

This plan will also make it much easier for me to establish various connexions, as well as to work on my new book.

She cannot be absolutely sure that the money will be paid in time. There may be some delay, or she may get only a portion. But I see no reason why things should not go through without a hitch.

She is quite willing to repay any sums advanced to her in the case of the loan falling through at the last moment for any reason.

I was very annoyed at having to discuss the matter with her at all; but time pressed. I have a strong feeling that I ought to be in Paris; perhaps there may be some Americans there whom I should see before they return to U.S.A. or — ? — ? anyhow, it is a strong instinct.

I leave here to-morrow Thursday, reaching Paris on Tuesday. Will let you know where I am staying.

If you think this good enough to go on, there is no need to transfer more than the £200. I will advance her what she needs out of this sum, taking her receipt to the "Thelema Publication Fund" (sending to you) — I wish you would think up a better name. My one effort will be to reconstitute the fund entirely before Sept 21, in some new way, just in case both K. & Mrs Eaton are late. Have no word from Sieveking, by the way: I hope to hear on arrival. And that rebuke Heilmann?
